history and the changes in African village life. The panoramic views from the museum are quite spectacular and we pause to take refreshments in these peaceful surroundings. Those wishing to stretch their legs can take a short walk down the hill to the village 'Kgotla'. This traditional institution continues to play an important part in Tswana village life and its function will be explained. Lunch is taken either at a restaurant in the village which offers a choice of tasty local dishes or at an 'international' restaurant in Gaborone. Heading south along the new dual carriageway and back to Gaborone we continue to Manyana village to view Stone Age rock paintings and the massive tree where Dr David Livingstone preached.
